

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A semiconductor based structure containing substantially smoothed waveguides having a rounded surface is disclosed, as well as methods of fabricating such a structure. The substantially smoothed waveguides may be formed of waveguide materials such as amorphous silicon or stoichiometric silicon nitride. The substantially smoothed waveguides are formed with an isotropic wet etch combined with sonic energy.